The 13th edition of the Paris Meetings:

“The local authorities’ international action, a tool of experimentation to face global challenges”

Wherever we live, in Dijon, Bamako, Seoul or Port aux Prince, as elected local governments, we are confronted with common global challenges: we have to ensure necessary food supplies for our populations, to provide quality public services, to guarantee the best possible living environment and conditions, to allow access to culture, to protect from the pandemic, to be vigilant about the wellbeing of the most disadvantaged, to facilitate access to vaccines...

Even if the answers we provide to face these challenges may vary according to geography, governance system or economy, the solutions we implement must be shared, exchanged, capitalized on, mutualized. The international action of local authorities can be an opportunity to put forward these shared experiences and concerted approaches. Cités Unies France, with more than 40 years of experience in supporting French local authorities’ international cooperation, is organizing the 13th edition of the Paris Meeting of local authorities, on Monday 20 and Tuesday 21 of June, at the Cité des Sciences et de l’Industrie, Paris – La Villette.

This year the main topic of CUF’s Paris Meetings will be articulated around the theme “The local authorities’ international action, a tool of experimentation to face global challenges”. Conferences, thematic workshops, micro-workshops, B2B meetings, country focus sessions, will be featured at this edition of our Paris Meetings.

I look forward to meeting you at this 13th edition, and I wish that this event will offer you the possibility of exchanging information, participating in discussions and debates, sharing experiences between French local authorities and their foreign partners.

François Rebsamen
President of Cités Unies France
Mayor of Dijon
President of Dijon Métropole
